Chapter 1 by Melvin Nolan

Junior walked upon a empty Wal-mart , He said i wonder if their is any sign of people. He slowly walked up to the store and jumped through the broken glass door and looked the place was destroyed he didn't know where to start he didn't have food or water. so he thought i should probably get some food and some water to hold me down for tonight.

He was walking through the store and everything was gone through everything was destroyed. no signs of humans and no sign of the creatures.

He went to the back of the store and found a case of water but no food. Junior thought I definitely gonna need water not as much as food. i need to get back to the house. as he was walking out of the store he heard a faint sound of a can dropping on the floor. He ran! It chased! He ran as fast as his legs would let him. he fell and quickly got back up. It kept getting faster and faster until he finally got back home he ran inside his boarded up house and closed the door it scratched and hit the door trying to get in. he went in the basement and was terrified to sleep he finally fell asleep. He had a dream that night. and it was about his mother and father he lost both of them to the creatures as they called them on the news ''Zombies''

He dreamed the getting torn apart watching them getting riped limb from limb blood
